Suspect tazed, Deputy injured
A Shreveport woman was arrested Sunday morning for child desertion and improper supervision of a minor.

At about 2 a.m. patrol officers were dispatched to the 400 block of Browning Street in connection to a 2-year-old boy wandering in the street by himself. Upon arrival, the officers found the child and rescued him. The officers then went door to door throughout the neighborhood in an effort to find a family member of the child, but to no avail.

Child Protection was notified and responded to take custody of the little boy. Detectives were notified and began an immediate investigation. As a result, detectives arrested the child’s aunt, Jacqueline Stroughter, 32, of the 700 block of Browning, and charged her with one count each of child desertion and improper supervision of a minor.

The little boy was not injured during his ordeal and remains in protective custody at this time.

School bus driver arrested for enticing boys for sex acts

Bossier City detectives arrested a man who worked as a Bossier Parish school bus driver for using money to lure two 16-year-old boys into committing sex acts on him.

Detectives with the Bossier City Police Department Juvenile Unit arrested 75-year-old Thomas T. Smith Jr. last Thursday after serving a search warrant at his home in the 600 block of Joannes Street.

He was booked into the Bossier City Jail on two counts of indecent behavior with juveniles for using money to entice the boys into his home in order to have them commit sex acts on him with the use of a variety of objects.

Smith’s bond was set at $100,000.

Bossier City Police Chief Mike Halphen said detectives began their investigation last Wednesday when they received a tip from a confidential informant.

After serving the search warrant at Smith’s home, detectives recovered a variety of evidence, including items that Smith had the victims use for sex acts on him.

Detectives believe Smith likely victimized other juveniles in the same manner, and Chief Halphen encourages those victims to contact detectives. Parents of children who rode Smith’s school bus are asked to talk with their children to see if they were also victimized by Smith.

Anyone who believes their children might have been victimized, including children living in Smith’s neighborhood, should call detectives at 741-8773.

During field sobriety and chemical breath testing, White refused. He was then taken to Troop G headquarters for a chemical breath test, which he refused. He was then taken to the Bossier Maximum Security Facility and booked. His bond was set at $4,200.

Bossier sheriff’s deputies took 20-year-old Joshua Ames Hudson of the 300 block of Country Club North into custody after they were dispatched to investigate a harassing phone call in the 200 block of Timberline.

During the course of the investigation, Hudson told the deputies that he was dating the 16-year-old daughter of the lady who placed the harassing call.

Initially, he said he had sex with the 16-year-old once time, but upon further questioning, he admitted that he had sex with her 10 to 11 times, the last time on June 3.

Anderson performed poorly on field sobriety tests. He was taken to Troop G headquarters for a chemical breath test, which he refused. He was then taken to the Bossier Maximum Security Facility and booked. His bond was set at $2,000.

FROM STAFF REPORTS

BATON ROUGE, La.—Gov. Bobby Jindal announced seven Community Development Block Grants (LCDBG) totaling $2,246,806 last Friday.

The governor said the grants have been awarded to communities throughout Northwest Louisiana in the form of public facilities grants to be used for infrastructure projects.

Gov. Jindal said, “This investment will provide critical funds to improve and maintain our communities’ infrastructure and ensure that every Louisianan has the opportunities and quality of life they deserve.

The Bossier Parish Police Jury received a $171,954 grant to construct two new streets in the parish.

The town of Zwolle received a grant for $583,000 to improve the sewer mains and water lines.

The Webster Parish Police Jury received a $142,200 grant to rehabilitate or replace sewer mains and sewer lines.

The town of Zwolle received a grant for $578,652 to construct six new streets and rehabilitate five streets within the town.

LCCBG public facilities grants are awarded to improve existing infrastructure or construct new infrastructure, such as water systems, sewer systems, fire protection, streets or multi-purpose community centers.

According to federal requirements, at least 51 percent of recipients served by these projects must be low- to moderate-income families. Additionally, water and sewer projects must remedy existing conditions that violate a state or federal standard established to protect public health and safety.

The primary objective of the Louisiana Community Development Block Grant Program is to provide assistance to local governments in non-entitlement areas for the development of viable communities by providing decent housing, a suitable living environment and expanding economic opportunities, principally for persons of low and moderate income.

Non-entitlement areas are municipalities with a population of less than 50,000 and parishes with an unincorporated population of less than 200,000.

Police officers receive lifesaving and commendation awards

Bossier City Police Chief Mike Halphen presented the Bossier City Police Department’s Life Saving and Commendation Awards to several officers for their outstanding work in two recent incidents.

The Life Saving Award was presented to Michael Hardesty, Carl Liddell, Nicole McArthur and Steven Jones for their quick action on the night of June 1, when they responded to a major fire at the Homewood Apartments in the 1800 block of East Texas Street.

Officers Hardesty and Liddell saw flames coming from one of the buildings as they were driving by the complex. They immediately called headquarters requesting the fire department and backup.

McArthur and Jones arrived a short time later, and all four officers went door to door to evacuate six residents from the burning building. Officers had to kick in the door to one apartment to alert and remove the people inside who were asleep.

Shortly after they got the residents outside, the building became engulfed in flames. No one was injured in the fire.

The Commendation Award went to officers Justin Dunn and Mathew Hannah for entering the attic of a home in the 2500 block of Conrad Street on May 5 and capturing a dangerous suspect wanted for aggravated battery. The suspect had assaulted his girlfriend on two occasions, with the latest incident happening earlier that day.

While looking for the suspect, officers saw him enter the home and believed he was hiding in the attic. They gave several verbal commands for the man to come out, but he refused. Officers deployed tear gas, which had little or no effect on the man.

The officers then climbed into the attic, whereupon the suspect began to fight the officers, causing all three to fall through the ceiling. The suspect was then taken into custody.

Council on Aging donation leads to major craft sale

The Caddo Council on Aging will present a Sewing/Crafting Garage Sale on Saturday, June 27, from 7-11 a.m. in the air-conditioned gym at Christ United Methodist Church, 1204 Crabapple Drive in Shreveport.

A generous anonymous benefactor donated more than two U-Haul trailers filled with items to the Council on Aging, which led to the idea for the sale.

COCO Board President Liz Swaine said this is a wonderful opportunity to raise money for some items not covered in the agency’s budget, such as small parties for its seniors and refreshments at senior events.

Included in the sale will be fabrics, notions, lace and trims, quilting items, yarn, sewing and embroidery threads, crafting materials, kitchen items and vintage clothing.

The sale will be cash only.

For more information, call Jo at 318-0632-2900.

Monroe CPA going to jail for tax violation

MONROE, La.—A Monroe CPA and businessman was sentenced to 12 months in a federal prison on one count of filing fraudulent returns and other documents.

Gary Hoover, 52, pleaded guilty to the charge last December.

Hoover admitted to filing 23 false documents with the IRS between September 2002 and June 2004 involving five automobile dealerships which he and other family members owned. The ownership interests were held by Hoover and his relatives through Vision Quest, LLC.

Hoover directed his accountant to over-allocate net operating losses to the Hoover Group and Vision Quest, although Hoover knew that the ownership percentages given to the accountant for allocation of the losses were inflated.

Hoover then hired another CPA to carry those net operating losses back to prior years by filing amended tax returns, which caused Hoover and relatives to receive refunds of taxes previously paid to the IRS.

The loss to the government total $550,019 for criminal purposes for all of the involved returns.
District Judge Scott Crichton launches Web site

By JOHN E. SETTLE JR.

In today’s computer-driven information world, Web sites have become almost as common as phone book ads. Most learned professions have endorsed Web site marketing. One need look no further than Obama’s successful presidential campaign for the new standard in computer political races.

Caddo District Judge Scott Crichton has recently launched his own Web site — judgescottcrichton.com — which sets a high standard for any members of the judiciary who want to go on the Internet. Crichton’s tagline, “administering justice all day, every day,” is descriptive of one of the area’s hardest-working jurists.

The Web site has a total of nine pages with drop-down menus; in addition to that home page, one can view Court, Rulings, Biography, Ethics, Docket, Seminars, Community and From the Bench pages.

The Web site also has over 10 podcasts that may be viewed and a video gallery as well. The home page, whichtoutsthat it is “the first of its kind for district judges,” sets forth three primary information purposes. The first is to provide litigants, lawyers and the public with basic information about Caddo District Court, emphasizing procedural rules and the basics of which judges expect.

The second is to outline Crichton’s professional background as a Caddo assistant district attorney and a lawyer in private civil practice.

Lastly, the Web site shares the crime prevention PowerPoint program ‘Don’t Let This Be You,’ which Crichton created.

This Web site is sophisticated, yet easy to use and practical in design. It contains numerous photos of His Honor on the various pages, along with a photo gallery. Unfortunately, his “winter” beard and famous “cowboy boots under the black robe” are not displayed.

By no means is the Web site a fill-in-the-blank template done on the cheap. The production of this classy “first of its kind” Web site for a district judge invokes several questions. Judge Crichton advises that costs of the Web site were paid from budgeted parish funds. He also says the Web page is educational, not political.

Crichton’s name had been bantered about for years as a candidate for Caddo District Attorney; his announcement that he would not seek office last summer shocked political observers. Crichton has not denied any future political aspirations, and the Web page apparently confirms his thoughts of additional public service after the end of his Caddo judgeship.

Crichton could be positioning himself to run for the Louisiana Second Circuit Court of Appeal — or maybe the Louisiana Supreme Court. There is speculation that former Bossier-Webster District Judge Harmon Drew, who now sits on the Second Circuit bench, may not seek re-election. (Judge Drew’s wife, Jean, who is a Second Circuit staff attorney, has adamantly denied such rumors.)

Louisiana Supreme Court Justice Jeff Victory has been on the Supreme Court since 1995, and his second 10-year term ends in 2015. Victory has had some health issues, and there has been speculation that he might step down before his term ends.

How well Crichton gets out the word on his Web site is critical to his success. For those that know him, it’s safe to assume that he will be leaving the Caddo bench in the foreseeable future — either for private practice or another judgeship. A good guess is that Crichton will want to continue wearing the black robe and his boots, but in a different venue.

Joy comes in the morning

By DR. STEVE FOWLER
NORTHPOINT UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

Now, this is a cool gift.

I don’t know about you, but I’m always trying to give the special thing to my wife that will get her attention, enable her to talk about it to her friends, and generally keep me in good grace with her.

A gift card would never be on my gift list. I like to get them, but I really don’t like to give them. I’d rather give the gift that shows that I took the effort to go out and make the “search” and do the “old school” thing and buy, wrap and give the gift.

I know this is 2009. Gift cards are a part of our culture. And they’re not going away.

I know this is 2009. Gift cards are a part of our culture. And they’re not going away.

But this one is really cool.

The children of Joy Zamoizikian wanted to give her a special present for her 85th birthday back in April, but they had sort of run out of gifts to give.

And I understand their frustration. My mom’s not 85, but with her birthday and Mother’s Day being very close together (she was actually born on Mother’s Day!) and at Christmas, we sometimes struggle with what to give her, to give her something that won’t just “sit around the house” or something that she’ll really like.

Back to the Zamoizikians. Her children knew that she had always loved gardening. So last November, on the grassy hill of her home in Candor, N.Y., they planted 21,000 white and yellow daffodil bulbs.

When Ms. Zamoizikian looked out at her yard one day in April, she got the surprise of her life. The blooming daffodils that had been “asleep” through the winter had been set in a pattern that spelled out her name, “J-O-Y.”

Wow!

Daughter Nancy said, “We were thinning about writing something, and Zamoizikian was too long, so we settled on “Joy.”

The Bible says, I have no greter joy than to hear that my children are walking in the truth” (3 John 4).
Editor's Response: I understand your point; however, we also feel it is important that neighbors know where suspects live. This is a great resource for people to know who is living in their neighborhood. The address is a matter of public record. If I were you, I would take this matter up with your family members.

Little Brad
Yes, nothing has been said about Little Brad Reeves. When does he go to court? Or has his so-called celebrity status allowed him to be swept under the rug? Also, what’s going on with Jennifer Gray? It’s good to see her back on television. But is she still in the middle of this love triangle? A little info would be great to hear from you all.

Editor’s Response: There really isn’t anything new to report on the case. Bossier Clerk of Court records show that the case was reset by Assistant District Attorney Matt Altimus on April 8, 2009, but there is no new court date listed in the court records. I spoke with Brad recently, and he stated that he and his ex-wife were getting along now.
Chase ends with suspect being shot with tazer

Deputy injured during nighttime chase into woods

A Caddo Parish sheriff’s deputy was injured and had to be transported to a local hospital after a suspect took off running into a wooded area near Northwood High School last Friday night, June 12.

Caddo Parish Sheriff’s Capt. Jay Wright said Travis Lee Baker III, 39, of 7225 North Tami Lane, Shreveport, had been pulled over for a traffic violation by Deputy James Norwood at the Sonic Drive-In on North Market near the intersection of the Old Mooringsport Road, when he was conducting a field sobriety test on Baker. Deputies Matt Purgeson and Chris Wray arrived on the scene and began checking for warrants on the passengers in the vehicle with Baker.

Wright said Baker subsequently failed the sobriety test, and Norwood advised him that he was under arrest. At that point, Baker took off running.

Sgt. Malcolm Laing said patrol deputies chased Baker into a wooded thicket adjacent to Northwood High School. After a brief chase through the woods, deputies managed to capture him.

Wright said deputies had to use a tazer gun on Baker to get him into compliance.

Laing said Norwood received an injury to his leg during the chase when he hit it on a stump that was apparently not visible during the nighttime hours of the chase.

Firefighters with Caddo Parish Fire District No. 1 were called to the scene to administer medical attention to Norwood, whom they subsequently transported to a local hospital by ambulance.

Firefighters also checked out Baker before he was transported to the Caddo Correctional Center, where he was booked into the parish jail on a variety of charges, including DWI, resisting an officer, having an open container alcohol in the vehicle, no driver’s license, and on warrants for speeding and driving under suspension.

When disaster strikes, control must be re-established quickly. To keep operations running smoothly in the event of a disaster, the Bossier Sheriff’s Office now has a fully functional, state-of-the-art Mobile Command Center.

“If there were to be a natural or man-made disaster — and God forbid, we hope there is never one — the sheriff could conceivably run the whole sheriff’s office through this Mobile Command Center,” said Ed Baswell, public information officer for the Bossier Sheriff’s Office. “He could be in Arkansas and run the sheriff’s office through this.”

The 40-foot Blue Bird bus was custom-built for the sheriff’s office by OBS Inc. out of Canton, Ohio, at a cost of $250,000.

“We’ve actually had it for a little over a year, but we’ve been working on it, putting the latest, state-of-the-art equipment in it,” said Baswell.

“We have all kinds of communications equipment inside. We have cellular, we have Internet, we have satellite.”

The Mobile Command Center also has redundant power systems to ensure its operational capabilities in the event of power outages.

So how problematic were things before the Mobile Command Center arrived? “It created some problems, there’s no doubt about it,” Baswell said.

“One thing that comes to mind is the tornado that hit the Hay Meadow subdivision. We would have loved to have had at that time this Mobile Command Center. It would have made our job a lot easier.”

Inside, televisions are tuned to news networks, and a pair of laptop computers are manned by two sheriff’s deputies.

Baswell said that those two deputies could run everything from their stations inside the command center, “leaving more deputies in the field handling the problem.”

“This is the actual command screen from the sheriff’s office. We can run the sheriff’s office from afar if we have to,” said Deputy David Faulk.

“If the sheriff decides to deploy the command center,” he said, “we could go, for example, down to the CenturyTel Center parking lot and be in a central location of the parish, and through the satellite telephones, wireless and cellular telephones and our computers, we can run the whole operation from here.”

“We have to think outside of the box, we have to think ahead, we have to be proactive,” Baswell said.

“A lot of people say, well, we don’t have that many natural or manmade disasters. When you think about it, we have tornadoes that come through here frequently. So the chances are we are going to have a disaster of some kind at some point. We hope not. This Mobile Command Center is a little like insurance. When you don’t need it, everything is fine, but when you need it, you really need it.”

Stamp mistakes expected to bring millions

By JAMIE STENGLE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—One man’s collection of more than 3,000 mistakes could turn out to be worth millions.

These aren’t just ordinary errors. These are the rare variety produced when part of a postage stamp is printed upside-down.

The collection amassed by Pittsburgh stockbroker Robert H. Cunliffe, who died last year at the age of 83, is expected to sell for more than $4 million when Dallas-based Spink Shreves Galleries puts it up for auction in New York City.

“It is without question the most comprehensive collection of inverted centers and inverted printings ever formed,” said Charles Shreve, president of Spink Shreves Galleries. “What really blows people away is how many rarities he has one after the other.”

The auction has drawn worldwide attention, the auction house said.

“Never before has anyone pulled them together like this,” said Cheryl Ganz, chief curator of philately at the Smithsonian National Postal Museum. “It just takes your breath away. ... Inverts are absolutely one of the most exciting and alluring and dramatic stamps out there.”

Inverted stamps result when different colors and elements are printed in separate press runs and a sheet gets flipped upside-down between press runs.

Cunliffe’s collection from around the world includes an “inverted Jenny,” a famous U.S. stamp from 1918 featuring an upside-down biplane. It’s expected to bring of at least $125,000 to $150,000.

The offering expected to go for the most, though — $300,000 or more — is a strip of four U.S. stamps from 1901 featuring an upside-down electric automobile, Shreve said.

Other kinds of mistakes also are collected, such as perforations being in the wrong spot or a blotch of ink that doesn’t belong, but inverts stand apart.

“We’re already seeing impacts across the nation,” said co-author Virginia Burkett, coordinator of global change science at the U.S. Geological Survey. “The evidence is much stronger than it has been.”

White House: Climate change damage happening now

By SETH BORENSTEIN
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Harsh effects from global warming are already here and worsening, warns the first climate report from Barack Obama’s presidency in the strongest language on climate change ever to come out of the White House.

Global warming has already caused more heavy downpours, rising temperature and sea level, rapidly retreat glacialities, longer growing seasons and altered river flows, according to the document released Tuesday by the White House science adviser and other top officials.

“There are in some cases already serious consequences,” report co-author Anthony Janetos of the University of Maryland told The Associated Press. “This is not a theoretical thing that will happen 50 years from now. Things are happening now.”

The White House document — a climate status report required periodically by Congress — contains no new research. But it focuses and organizes what’s been covered in numerous scientific journals and piecemeal federal studies to paint a more cohesive, bigger and darker picture of global warming in the United States.

The “major disruptions” already taking place will only increase as warming continues, the authors wrote. They project the average U.S. temperature could rise by as much as 11 degrees by the end of the century.

“Thresholds will be crossed, leading to large changes in climate and ecosystems,” the study said in one of its key findings, adding that it could affect the survival of some species.

For example in the past few decades, winters in parts of the Midwest have warmed by several degrees and the time without frost has grown by a week, according to the report.

“People are already seeing impacts across the nation,” said co-author Virginia Burkett, coordinator of global change science at the U.S. Geological Survey. “The evidence is much stronger than it has been.”

White House science adviser John Holdren said in a statement that the findings make the case for taking action to significantly reduce U.S. greenhouse emissions and adapting to the changes that “are no longer avoidable.”

“It tells us why remedial action is needed sooner rather than later,” Holdren said.

The report emphasized that water, either too much or too little, will continue to be a major problem in every region of the country.

“Water permeates this document,” Burkett said. She said the U.S. Southwest will get drier and hotter and that will be a crucial issue.

The nearly 200-page report has chapters examining the effects of global warming in each region, as well as everything from health to transportation problems.

Federal law requires comprehensive reports on global warming’s effects every four years. An environmental group sued to force the Bush administration to issue an almost full report last summer because one had not been written since 2000. Since that time, the language has become stronger, but mostly because of fresh research, scientists said.

“The emphasis has shifted from just looking at the physical climate science to adapting to change,” Burkett said in an interview.

FDA says Zicam nasal spray can cause loss of smell

WASHINGTON (AP)—Consumers should stop using Zicam Cold Remedy nasal gel and related products because they can permanently damage the sense of smell, federal health regulators said Tuesday.

The over-the-counter products contain zinc, an ingredient scientists say may damage nerves in the nose needed for smell. The other products affected by the Food and Drug Administration’s announcement are adult and kid-size Zicam Cold Remedy Nasal Swabs.

The FDA says about 130 consumers have reported a loss of smell after using Zicam products since 1999.

“Loss of the sense of smell is potentially life threatening and may be permanent,” said Dr. Charles Lee. “People without the sense of smell may not be able to detect life dangerous situations, such as gas leaks or something burning in the house.”

The FDA said Zicam Cold Remedy was never formally approved because it is part of a small group of remedies that are not required to undergo federal review before launching. Known as homeopathic products, the formulations often contain herbs, minerals and flowers.

A warning letter issued to Scottsdale-based manufacturer Matrixx Initiatives on Tuesday asked the company to stop marketing its zinc-based products, but the agency did not issue a formal recall. Instead, regulators said Matrixx had to submit safety and effectiveness data on the drug.

“The next step, if they wish to continue marketing Zicam intranasal zinc products, is for them to come in and seek FDA approval,” said Deborah Autor, director of FDA’s drug compliance division.

The agency is requiring formal approval now because of the product’s safety issues, she added.

Matrixx Initiatives is facing multiple lawsuits over the product, but says on its Web site: “No plaintiff has ever won a court case, because there is no known causal link between the use of Zicam Cold Remedy nasal gel and impairment of smell.”

Representatives from the company, which saw its stock price plunge to a 52-week low after the FDA announcement, did not immediately return calls for comment Tuesday.

Health officials said they have asked Matrixx executives to turn over more than 800 consumer complaints concerning lost smell that the company has on file. A 2007 law began requiring manufacturers to report such problems, but FDA regulators declined to say Tuesday whether the company broke the law.

The 130 reports received by the FDA came entirely from physicians and patients, not the manufacturer.

Regulators said the relatively small number of complaints accounted for the agency’s lengthy investigation.

“FDA doesn’t take action against drug products without evaluating all of the circumstances surrounding the issues with the product,” Lee said.

Shares of Matrixx Initiatives Inc. plummeted $10.71, or 55.7 percent, to $8.53 in afternoon trading.
Texas teen hopes to raise $1M for hospital

DALLAS (AP)—During a visit to Texas Scottish Rite Hospital for Children, then-10-year-old Ben Sater noticed that his mom didn't stop to pay.

“I was very taken aback that he'd thought to do something,” Kim Sater said.

As he hosts his seventh KidSwing tournament on Monday at a Dallas country club, the 17-year-old is moving closer to his goal of raising $1 million by the time he goes to college next fall. So far, the tournament has raised about $660,000 for the Dallas hospital, not including their tally for this summer.

“He told me about it, I said, 'We're in,'” said Cameron Doan, a golf pro at a club. “Kim Sater said that so far, they've been able to get enough corporate sponsorship so that all the money the kids raise goes to the hospital.”

She said that Scottish Rite's focus on the kids always impressed her when she brought her son there. Ben Sater had his first surgery at the age of three on a pinky and thumb and then had surgery again at the age of five, and on three more fingers affected with trigger finger, a condition in which fingers lock or catch in a bent position.

“Once I noticed them, I kind of freaked out,” said Cameron Doan, a golf pro at a club.

Donna Dodson let Patrick's two older brothers, both Marines who have served in Iraq, know how ill he was. The American Red Cross flew them to Baton Rouge.

“Ben Sater's father, who was telling him about their connection to Scottish Rite, Cameron Doan then told him about Charlsie's connection to the hospital.”

Ants in mulch almost kill 13-year-old boy

By DEBRA LEMOINE
The (Baton Rouge) Advocate

CENTRAL, La. (AP)—Fire ants are the scourge of the Louisiana lawn, but their venomous stings can be as dangerous as those from bees, ants or wasps. Patrick Dodson, 13, and his mother, Donna Dodson, learned that one Sunday afternoon in March while doing yard work at their Central home.

Patrick Dodson fetched a bag of mulch made from a tree blown down by Hurricane Gustav in September. It tore open as he headed to the flower beds, and his leg was covered in hundreds of ants.

“They told me here if I had waited 45 minutes, 'Am I overreacting?'” Dodson said.

Slowly, the venom from ants is in the same classification as other stinging insects, such as bees, wasps and yellow jackets, said Dr. Melinda Frantz, director of the pediatric intensive care unit at Baton Rouge General Medical Center.

In Patrick Dodson's case, the number of stings may have caused this reaction — but his immune system now could overreact again from far fewer stings, he said.

“Each year, it's very much run by the kids,” said Bigger, who added the event helps make people aware of the work they do at the hospital.

“This is our next generation of philanthropists,” Bigger said. “They're learning about what it is to give back and give to others. It's a beautiful thing that they've done.”

Fourteen-year-old Stephen Hoefer, who has been participating in the KidSwing tournament since he was 7, will start volunteering at the hospital this summer by helping introduce Scottish Rite patients to the game of golf.

“Over the years Hoefer has gotten his friends involved in the tournament and has made friends there,” she said. “I like the cause and I thought it was fun playing golf,” he said.

Ten-year-old Blake Margolis, who along with Stephen, Ben Sater, and Charlsie Doan, is on the kids committee, enjoys seeing what happens behind the scenes.

“You get to get involved and you get to help,” Margolis said.

Kim Sater said that when the kids became friends other kids who have been patients at Scottish Rite, it brings home exactly who is being helped.

“They understand then why they're doing what they're doing,” she said.

Gov. Jindal to remove $278 million from budget

By MELINDA DESLATTE
Associated Press Writer

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Gov. Bobby Jindal said Monday that he'll use his line-item veto to strip from the budget bill $278 million in spending that was tied to other bills. Jindal said he will remove the $278 million in spending that includes funding for public colleges, health services, state parks, arts grants, agriculture programs and legislators' pet projects. Jindal said he intends to strip from the budget bill $118 million tied to the delay of a scheduled tax break for $86 million from the state's rainy day fund and $74 million from an expired insurance grant program.

Jindal and a majority of House members oppose the tax break delay. House leaders oppose the rainy day fund use. Senators structured the budget bill so the insurance grant money couldn't be used unless the tax break delay passed.

With Jindal's vetoes, lawmakers will have about $124 million available for budgeting in other spending bills: the $74 million from the expired insurance grant program and $50 million from a planned tax amnesty program.

Senators are pressing for more money, however, and several said they were disappointed that House members have refused to negotiate on any other sources of funding.

"I was hopeful that we could make some progress on tapping into the rainy day fund," said Sen. Mike Michot, R-Lafayette, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. "We're at a time where we can certainly make a case for it."
