LOC jailers face more allegations

By Christina Rowland

GEORGE WEST — Another civil lawsuit against Live Oak County and three former jailers on June 12 for sexual assaults that were reported to have taken place in July 2010.

The suit accuses former jailers Vincent Eric Aguilar, Isreal Charles Jr. and Jamie E. Smith of sexual assaults.

This is the second civil lawsuit that has come against the county and the jailers in the last year.

A motion to consolidate and continue was also filed on June 18 to add this case to the previous civil case that was filed by two separate women in August 2011.

There were several reasons stated by attorneys Ronald Armstrong II and James Peller in the motion for consolidating the two cases, including "the cases involve common questions of law and fact" and "consolidation will conserve judicial resources by facilitating the resolution of the cases in less time.

LIVE OAK COUNTY — A dead body was found on the side of U.S. Highway 59 near George West in 1984 with nothing but a shotgun shell.

A can of beer and an old green Dodge pickup situated nearby after gash marks were heard. The investigation went cold, and to this day, nobody knows who kidnapped and murdered Sylvester Trevino, P air.

Then, in the first week of this month, Paul's family got an anonymous note in their mailbox listing names of people responsible for the murder and kidnapping, according to Corpus Christi Police Officer and Corpus Christi Crime Stoppers Coordinator Kirk Stowers.

The note was not mailed, but was placed inside the mailbox.

MURDER CASE GETS NEW LEADS, SEEKS MORE INFO

Three Rivers Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Murrell Foster told the Progress that money has already been raised for the sale of property, but those funds can only be used for events that bring people to the community in an effort to promote local tourism.

"It has been good since we have gotten the word out," Foster said. "We wanted them to do something that was big for the whole community. We believe that we will be in good shape because we haven't been given to charge this season."

Features kick off at 4 p.m. with vendors of both food and drinks, and arts and crafts. Although most of the proceeds will be geared towards adults, there will be about a dozen small snack vendors suitable for children.

Foster said there will be two beer tents with 24 stations, so he doesn't anticipate the estimated $15,000 grants will have to be used to cover the cost of the upswing in Cowl of Cool. This was made possible by the Cowl of Cool and the hotel occupancy tax. Three Rivers Chamber of Commerce

Texas economic growth stays positive for three years straight

Texas’ seasonally adjusted total non-farm employment rose by 19,500 jobs in May for a total of 324,700 jobs added since May 2012. The state’s annual growth rate in May was 5.5 percent and has been positive every month beginning with May 2010. “Texas’ seasonally adjusted unemployment rate rose slightly in May to 5.7 percent, from 5.4 percent in April, as the state’s population continued to grow,” said Angela Gonzales, manager of Texas’ unemployment rate remained below the national’s May unemployment rate of 7.6 percent.

“The addition of the 324,700 jobs over the past year, with private-sector employers adding 299,900 during this period, is good news for Texas,” said Michael McClendon, Labor Commissioner Chairman Andrea Alonso said. The Midland Metropolitan Statistical Area (Midland) had the lowest May unemployment rate in the state at 3.4 percent. The Odessa MSA came in at 3.4 percent, and the Amarillo MSA third at 4.8 percent (not seasonally adjusted).

Nine of the 11 major industries in Texas saw positive growth led by the Health Care and Social Assistance industries, which added 19,500 jobs in May 2013 according to the Texas Workforce Commission’s latest numbers. That’s a total of 164,000 jobs over the last year for a 5.8 percent annual increase.

“I’m encouraged that the Texas job sector continues to find work,” said Kelli Passenger Representing Labor弘扬Congressional said. “Despite the slight increase in the unemployment rate, May’s Texas’ civilian labor force, the second largest in the nation, continues to grow, and that’s a positive sign.”

Construction remained the fastest growing major industry in Texas, based on a 6.7 percent annual growth rate. This industry has added 39,200 jobs over the year, including 500 over the last month. The Professional and Business Services industry expanded 2,700 jobs over the month and added 59,500 jobs over the year for a 4.2 percent annual growth rate.

“The consistency of Texas’ economic growth over the year is due to the entrepreneurial spirit of all its employers and our skilled workforce,” said TWCC Commissioner Representing Employers Hope Andrade.

Texas employers and job seekers can learn more about resources and opportunities available across the state at www.texasworkforce.org.

The Odessa MSA came in as the second largest in the state’s seasonally adjusted unemployment rate in May, Texas’ job seekers continued to find work,” said Andrade.

Loya rides bulls to state rodeo

By Bruce Harper
Special to The Progress

Sinton's Brandon Loya is all cowboy, a big rodeo fan and rider. He has taken up bull riding and placed fourth in a region of three tries, but his score was good enough to qualify the “rookie” rider to compete at the state level meet in Abilene June 7-15. The Bobcat rode just one bull at the meet, out of three tries, but his score was good enough on that one bull to capture 11th overall out of 50 riders from across Texas. He was the second highest “rookie” in the state.

Bull riders classify a rookie as anyone who had not ridden competitively before this year, and not even ever make it to the state meet and score well enough to be in the top 20 riders.

Loya has been riding horses all his life and has grown up around rodeos and bull riding. His father, Brandon Loya Sr., was a bull fighter, and Brandon Jr. took to it like it was second nature to him.

It’s real competitive and fun. It feels great when you make the ride,” said young Loya.

Bobby Flores, the owner of Bobby Flores Enterprises, has developed a lot of friends in the High School Rodeo Association, and they all help each other out, even if they’re competing against one another,” said Brandon’s mother, Samantha Loya.

“It’s not something we wanted him to do, but we’re supportive of his decision,” said his mother.

Nerves are not necessary a part of bull riding, according to Brandon, at least for him.

“Not really,” he said in answer to the question about being nervous when he gets ready to ride. His mother also confirms it’s not when he gets on the bull, it’s when he hits the ground.

“I know he can ride, but when he bucks off and hits the ground, it makes me nervous,” said Samantha Loya.

A lot can happen when the rider is basically defenseless in the dirt. The bull can change direction and try to run over him or kick him. That’s when even the best bull fighters come to the rescue and divert the bull’s attention, giving the rider time to make a hasty exit.

Area rodeo members inside in answer to the question, “How is it to be in the top 20 riders?” Brandon Loya Jr. is all cowboy, a big rodeo fan and rider. He has taken up bull riding and placed fourth in a region of three tries, but his score was good enough on that one bull to qualify the “rookie” rider to compete at the state level meet in Abilene June 7-15. The Bobcat rode just one bull at the meet, out of three tries, but his score was good enough on that one bull to capture 11th overall out of 50 riders from across Texas. He was the second highest “rookie” in the state.

Loya began riding calves when he was four and has moved up through the years to bigger and bigger stock. Most of the time he practices at a ring in George West with the assistance of Mr. Fox and Mr. Kuech.

“I want to make it to nationals next year,” said the young rider. The finals this year were in Rock Springs, Wyo., and have been held in places like Las Vegas and other big western cities. More than 12,500 students from 41 states and Canada and Australia are involved in rodeo’s various events at this level.

Brandon will probably get to visit a few of those big national meets in the years to come.

Clean-up effort, family reunion bring surprises

I'm glad Matt was out there early because, by mid-morning, we felt a breeze, but it was also the first day of summer!

On Saturday, June 22, we traveled to D'Hanis to attend the annual family reunion of the Rodriguez family. I had not attended since Mom died!

Well, Luis Urrabazo was there, but it was his "grandfather" that Mom was talking about! June had a photo of their wed- ding in 1965 that showed him and his wife Gloria and his "grandfather" because his dad, Luis Urrabazo Jr. died during World War II.

The photo also showed Cipriano (whom my broth- er Cipriano is named after) and Rodriquez who was a Desert Storm veteran to include the Army, the U.S. Marines, the Air Force and Navy and several had been deployed to Iraq and Afghanistan.

We left with the proud special celebration.

Another surprise during the introductions is that we have members who were enlisted in the mili- tary to include the Army, the U.S. Marines, the Air Force and Navy and several had been deployed to Iraq and Afghanistan.

Father’s Day Message: Call no man ‘father’

Call no man ‘father’ that was the exact title for an article in our ‘Father’s Day’ bulletin and those words of Jesus are found in Matthew 23:8.

Those words do need to be taken in their context. Jesus is talking about the ‘religious’ men of his day, saying they like to be called ‘father’ or ‘teacher’ or ‘Rabbi’ in a religious sense. In matters of religion there is none, on earth, above another, but instead in a family relation, we all are called ‘brothers.’ (See Jesus’ words in Matt. 23:8).

He is not saying we are not to call men ‘father’ who are our physical fathers. On the contrary, we are told to honor the fathers in our physical families, along with the mothers.

“For God said, ‘Honor your father and mother,’ and, ‘He who speaks evil of father or mother, let him be put to death.’ (Matt 15:4 NAS)

People always seem to have a hard time putting a title to a preacher in the churches of Christ. While many preachers in denominations go by titles, it is very uncommon for preachers in the churches of Christ to do so, but many people are conditioned to call men in the religious arena by titles.

This is especially noted when printing programs for events when they speak or even lead a prayer and formal greetings. Most sense that it is proper of me publicly, and seem uncomfortable, when I ask them by my first name.

Jesus’ words in Matthew 23:8 are warning about people that pride themselves by such greetings in the market place and we should be wary of the same thing.

Another reason we should be slow to address people by titles is that they do not fit the title they are called. Many people want to call preachers ‘Pastor’ but not all preachers are ‘Pastors.’

The Apostle Paul listed several qualifications for the office of ‘Pastor’ (also called Elder or Overseer) in 1 Tim 3:1-8 and in Titus 1:5-9.

Today in the religious world there are many that want the title that is not married, commonly seen in those that are called ‘Youth Pastors,’ yet God through Paul’s writing tells us a Pastor must be ‘the Husband of one wife’ (1 Tim 3:2 and Titus 1:6). The office of Elder/Pastor is an office requiring appointment, (Titus 1:5) and as I have not been appointed an elder/pastor, that title does not apply to me.

There are many other titles that men wear in the religious world that are not appropriate when looking at the indictment Jesus made of the religious men of his day in Matt 23:8-12.

Jesus said the religious titles of their day (Rabbis, Father, Leader/Master) were wrong as they did not recognize that men are all equal before God. We are all brothers, Jesus said (Matt 23:8).

A short time back I had a very enjoyable visit with a young man of the community, at Dairy Queen. He recognized who I am and that I was a preacher and called me ‘reverend’.

I pointed out that title did not apply as only God is above us, and I am no higher than he.

He struggled as he wanted to apply some title to me, which is unnatural in the religious world today, so in Jesus’ day I told him just to call me ‘Kevin.’ He pointed out that I was a teacher, to which I had no agreement. The proper relation of a teacher and student is, the teacher serves the student, though often today we find teachers that forget that.

If that is the thought, then ‘Teacher/Preacher’ might be an appropriate title, yet there is always the problem, that the person wearing the title forgets he is no better than anyone else in the standing of God.

Please, just call me Kevin, or Mr. Mackey. If you must give me a title in a program, use ‘Minister,’ for it means ‘servant.’

Atlas purchases cryogenic plant and pipelines for $1 billion

TULIA — The Silver Oak Cryogenic plant officially has a new owner. TEAK Midstream announced in late June that the company had purchased a cryogenic plant and pipelines from Atlas Pipeline Partners. The sale was completed in May.

“From a cultural perspective, I am pleased to see a company that has been good to this area buying more of the Eagle Ford for some time.”

“I think it’s great news because we are just beginning to see the long-term economic growth.”

Chances changing to permit drilling process

By Christie Rondal

The Texas Legislature passed House Bill 1001 earlier this year which gives unit operators the right to conduct casing and cleaning operations without a permit when submitting their base area applications.

But some stakeholders are concerned that the elimination of the permit process will allow companies to conduct casing and cleaning operations at any time without the proper legal notice and public input.

"The primary concern is the change to the permit process," said Tom Hobbs, executive director of the Texas Minerals Management Society. "There is no provision by which companies can be required to give notice of unit operations. They won't need a permit to do casing and cleaning operations."

Hobbs and others argue that the elimination of the permit process could result in companies conducting operations in multiple units at the same time, without the necessary public input and hearing.

"It's going to be hard to monitor, " said Hobbs. "We've had cases where public input has been needed to ensure that operations are being conducted in a way that is safe for the environment and the public."

The bill, HB 1001, was passed by the Texas Legislature earlier this year and is now awaiting the governor's signature.

The bill eliminates the need for companies to obtain a permit before conducting casing and cleaning operations in a unit area. Instead, companies will be required to submit an application to the Texas Railroad Commission (TRC) and provide a public notice.

The bill also provides for the establishment of a unit management plan (UMP) that will outline the procedures and protocols to be followed by unit operators.

The HEA, a region of the state with high levels of oil and gas production, was selected as the pilot area for the new system. The HEA is located in the west-central part of the state and includes portions of the counties of Tarrant, Parker, and Dallas.

due to the flames, and the engine was charred.

“It’s not particularly common,” Alcala said. “It stresses the importance of getting your vehicles up to snuff, make sure the radiator is good and the tires are good.”

The Grace Armantrout Museum is one of those things – that everyone knows someone in their lives who is a vet. It’s a wonderful thing to have, it’s important because my husband’s a vet. It’s a wonderful thing to celebrate.

Demolition of the old George West High School went into high gear on June 24. The interior was gutted prior to heavy equipment use and the demolition crew anticipates completion within the next couple of weeks.

George West centennial celebrations slated for 2014

memorial in Washington, D.C., and the one that’s in the works for George West is supposedly the largest one at 80 percent.

“What can you do to get people to come and celebrate if not to celebrate the veterans?” Mayor Steele asked. “It’s just one of those things – that everyone has someone in their lives who is a vet. So, it’s important because my husband is a vet. It’s a wonderful thing to celebrate.”

The Grace Armantrout Museum is behind bringing the wall to George West, but the contract isn’t in stone yet. The museum is currently seeking donations to help cover the estimated cost of $8,000.

Although the memorial is tentatively set to be the centerpiece of the festivities, the city and chamber are seeking volunteers to join the centennial committee and brainstorm ideas for how the town should ring in its centennial year and to help make it happen.

“We’re going to have our organization meeting in the not-too-distant future,” McWilliams said. “We don’t have plans firm, but the city and the chamber are going to be working together.”

George West City Manager Sandra Martinez told the city council that several people have come to city hall and the chamber of commerce already to discuss preparations for the centennial during their meeting on June 19. The city council unanimously approved helping fund the centennial events for 2014.

“The excess of money in the HOT funds could be used for the centennial, which could be used for heads-to-beds,” Martinez said. “Everyone should be involved because this is celebrating the city’s birthday.”

Hotel occupancy tax funds are set aside exclusively for events that promote tourism. These tax funds are how Three Rivers is funding its centennial celebration next week.

As a centennial celebration, the town’s history will be a common theme through the year. The George West Chamber of Commerce is seeking information on families who played a role in the founding of the town and its early years for a series of feature articles on founding families to be printed in The Progress throughout 2014.

McWilliams suggested the Canfield family, owners of the early local grocery store, as one of the families to feature in the historical articles. But she is open to suggestions for more families.

“I think it will come together, be a big project and be successful and the natives of George West will have something to be proud of,” she said.

McWilliams encouraged anyone with information and early photos to contact the chamber.

To get involved with the brainstorming and planning process for the George West centennial, contact the George West Chamber of Commerce at 449-2013 or McWilliams at 962-3322.

“It’s just overwhelming when you see it’s coming, and time is running tight on this already,” Steele said.

Nueces Street to consist of area between Milam Street and Highway 59

But when responding to a call, EMS could be looking for something identified as one or the other.

“It’s a nightmare actually,” Martinez said.

George West Chief of Police Roy Garcia said keeping the roads as Highway 281 would be better for the police department since some of the deputies don’t know that Nueces Street and Highway 281 are the same.

The council decided to keep the stretch of road from Highway 59 to Milam Street as Highway 281, the everything between Highway 59 and Milam Street will remain as Nueces Street.

LOC corral donations to benefit Driscoll

The annual event takes place in seven different counties throughout the children’s hospital service area. The events are held at the local cattle auction barns.

LOC 4-H clubs, FFA chapters, county extension agents, local businesses and residents participated by donating goods and services that were auctioned off to benefit Driscoll.

Students from LOC county clubs and chapters assisted with the auction by parading the items during the auctions for buyers to view.

In 2012, the auction from LOC netted $87,000 of the total $199,000 collected during the seven-county event.

The event was sponsored by Lyssy & Erkle Feeds in George West. The next roundup is scheduled for Beeville on Friday, June 28, at the Beeville Livestock Commission.

Brown had made the trip once before as a young college student with his best friend. The duo made a pact that they would one day try again with their own sons of given the chance.

Brown and 17-year-old son Cody got their chance this year. The trip begins in San Marcos River at San Marcos and flows gently for the first miles. Only the hot sun, mosquitoes and dehydration were a problem during the race. The river merges with the Guadalupe River, things begin to get interesting and a good deal more dangerous. Horrible log jams, sleep holes, swift rapids, boulders, alligators and poisonous snakes become a daily if not hourly disaster to overcome. Below Victoria, the river runs through coastal swamps all the way to the bay.

The racers also have to cross a small portion of the bay and that was also a hardship to endure at the end of such a test of endurance and fortitude.

“The bay was treacherous. Waves were breaking over the bow of the canoe, and we weren’t sure if we would capsize or swam because of the rough bay,” said Cody.

“We were paddling and bailing water to keep us afloat while trying to keep our bow into the waves. There was no moon and it was pitch black, we weren’t real sure if we were lost or not.”

The Browns finished the test of endurance in 96 hours in their 17-foot Grumman two-man aluminum canoe.

The Brown team included a support team of several family members and friends. Stewart Brown, Sidney Moore, Rhonda Brown, Taylor Brown, Jason Gass, Elizabeth Gass, Savanna McCremer and Tiffany Daughter.

First-timers in the race only finish about five percent of the time. David belongs to the elite club of finishers and now so does Cody. The younger Brown also holds the honor of being the youngest competitor at the 2013 race.

When asked if he wanted to do it again, Cody thought for a slight moment and then slowly shook his head.
